if you see an emergency at sea, call 999 and ask for Jersey Coastguard

Beach safety

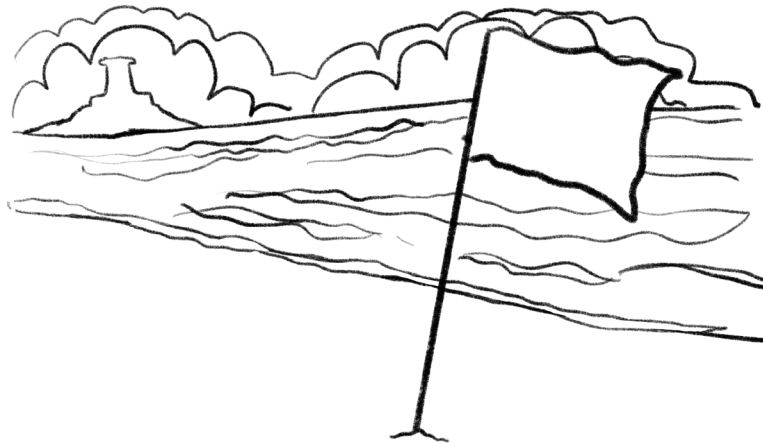

Can you colour the flags in the right colours?

When you go to the beach, always look for the red and yellow flags before you swim. These flags show you where it is safe.

If you see a red flag, it means it's too dangerous to go swimming.
Stay out of the water to keep safe and listen to the lifeguards.

When you go to the beach, always choose one with a lifeguard. We are easy to spot as we wear yellow and red.

Lifeguards are there to keep you safe at the beach. We watch the water and help anyone in trouble.

Can you colour me in to show my uniform?

#i, I'm sandy

Spot the danger

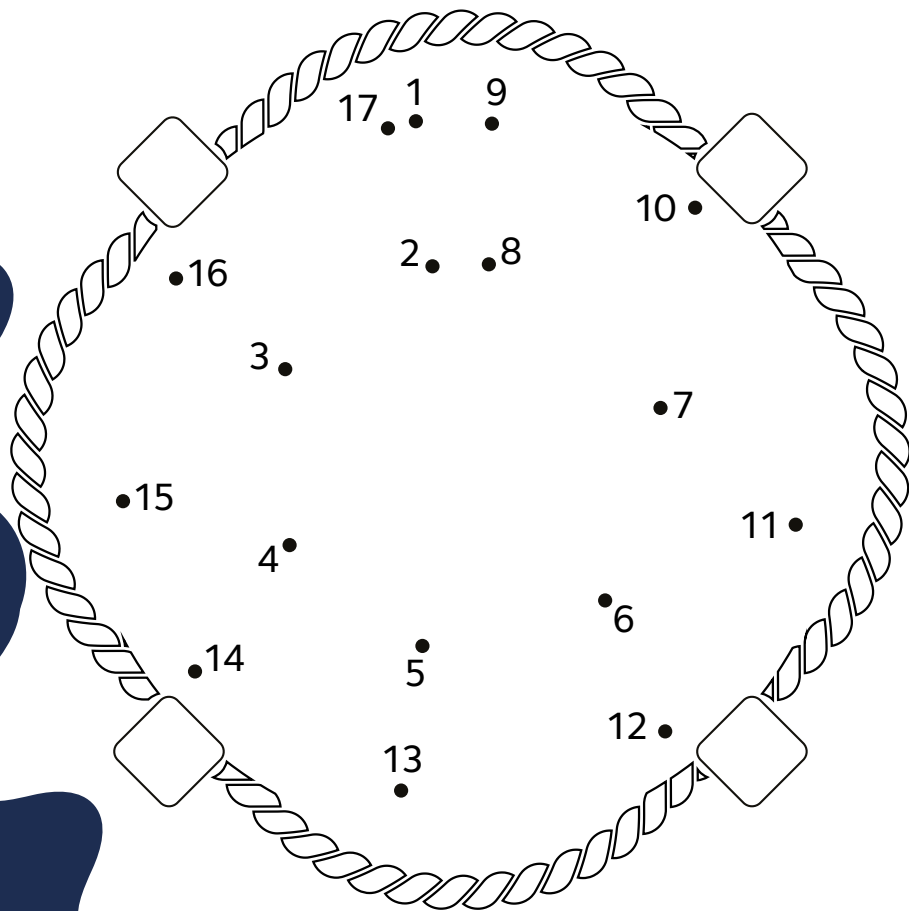

When you go to the beach, it's important to stay safe so you can have lots of fun! How many children can you spot who weren't being careful?

Dot to dot

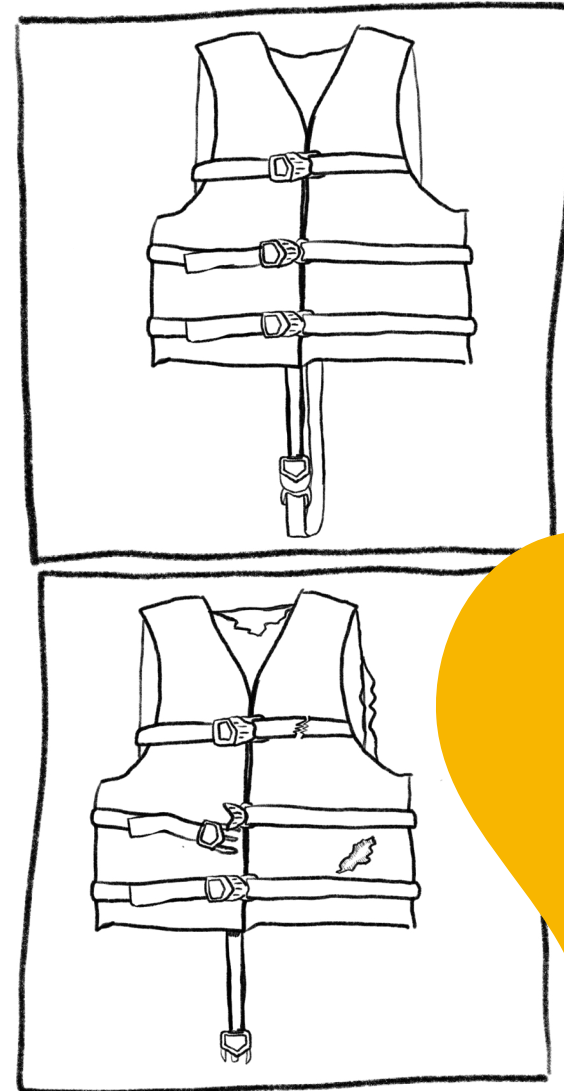

A life buoy is a special floating ring that helps people stay safe in the water. If someone is in trouble, they can hold onto the life buoy to stay afloat until help arrives.

Now, let's have some fun! Complete the dot-to-dot picture of a life buoy in your activity book. Connect the dots to see what it looks like!

Spot the difference

Look at the two pictures. They look almost the same, but there are some differences between them. Can you find all five?

Hi, my name is Finn

Whenever you are on a boat, stand up paddle board or kayak, you should always wear something to help you float.

Have fun spotting the difference!
